Regulations on the competition of young scientists of the KSMA.

Within the framework of the Days of Science KSMA, a review or competition of achievements in scientific research is held among postgraduates and applicants of all forms of education, clinical residents, interns and students.

The purpose of the competition is to encourage the research activities of young scientists and students, to publicly recognize and reward the most interesting works in the field of basic sciences and clinical disciplines.

The following activities are carried out for the competition:

1. By the order of the rector of the KSMA a competition commission is created. The competition committee should include doctors and candidates of science working in the field of fundamental or clinical sciences. The composition of the competition commission should be based on the principles of gender equality, ethnic and age representation. The composition of the competition commission is announced in advance.
2. The competition commission develops selection criteria based on which the best scientific works are evaluated by 7-10 indicators. The competitive selection criteria must correspond to three sections:
3. The selection of competitive works is carried out in two stages:
 - identification of the most significant works
 - competitive selection among significant works.
4. Monetary or administrative remuneration is determined by the management KSMA on the basis of its own funds or the involvement of funds from third-party organizations, sponsors.
5. The Competition commission records its decision and, signed by the members of the competition commission, transmits its decision to the Rector KSMA.
